

CAROL™

CAROL™ takes on new life and fills many functions within today's environments. Semi private touch down spaces are an integral part of active learning and hybrid working environments, providing areas with reduced distractions that can support concentrated work.

Creating active learning zones to focus and grow.

CAROL™ is a versatile collection of study carrels built for today's learning and working environments. Modern educational and working spaces have a need for multiple zones that create flexibility and accommodate multiple forms of working and learning styles. CAROL provides both a space for students to work independently, there-by supporting a crucial step in their academic progression; and for workers to touch down for a full work day, or simply a quick meeting or video call. Single or dual sided carrels are available in a variety of sizes and are configurable as freestanding or linking units, optimizing both flexibility and function in modern working and learning spaces.
